

#feb12

As part of the 366project, I take a picture every day. At the end of the month I compose a song with ONLY the pictures I have taken in that particular month. The month of February offered a nice opportunity to use the hashtag as a sharp, so f#, e, and b became the haunting melody. I posted the song on soundcloud and the full video (created in Final Cut X) I posted on youtube. I used the pictures I took for the 366project for the video.