

Time to Move On - Goodbye Be A Techie!

I started www.beatechie.com blog in 2006. I really enjoyed the blog and the possibilities it was offered to me.

But, over the next three days I will be closing it down and will only have the www.carolbroos.com website/blog. I am starting over. After 483 posts, it has come to an end. Think about it, everything you do will end, How you end it is your design. It was time.

I retired the first time in 2011, after thirty-three years of teaching K-8 general music in Illinois. Then I worked two years at the Golden Apple Foundation, commuting two hours each way. I moved to Florida and am working on simplifying my life. One of the simple things will be having only one blog, one website. I choose the www.carolbroos.com since it was the first url I purchased and it defines me.

It's been a great ride and I feel an new desire to blog by only having one website/ blog. My philosophy has and will be EVERYONE should Be A Techie, it's the only way you can exist in today's world.

Hope to see you at the www.carolbroos.com site.